Stocks Less Active, but Close Firmer.

MONEY EASIER.

Governments Were Strong, State Bonds Were Forgotten and Bailways Were Steady.

THURSDAY, August 28—6 P. M. }
The stock market to-day has been as flat as a bottle of small beer with the cork out. Until late in the afternoon commission brokers went meaning about destitute of orders and in a state of wonderment that the activity of yesterday should have so suddenly given way to a state of dulness. As a matter of given way to a state of dulness. As a matter of fact, speculation rather unexpectedly struck a sinch tide. The current which for some days past has been running ebb turned flood this afternoon, and the low water bears found themselves floated away from the harbor of depressed prices, which they had confidently hoped to make. To the change in the price of call loans is to be attributed the change in the spirit of speculation. From a sharp 7 per cent money market (with occasionally an additional extortion of 132 imposed by money lenders to whom Manhattan Beach is a myth and a dream) the rate fell to-day to 6 per cent for the bulk of transactions and to 5 per cent for cleaning the bulk of transactions and to 5 per cent for closing ones. In a word money was decidedly easier to-day, and what with the inward flow of currency attracted and what with the inward flow of currency attracted by the apasmodically high rates of a day or two past and the receipts of gold from abroad and the amounts now afloat and those likely to be shipped in the immediate future, there is every prospect that it will become easier yet. The share market quickly caught the cue afforded by the more cheer-ful prospect and from a state of depression rallied into a position of positive strength, which it main-tained to the end. Unless all signs fail, the decline in prices resulting from the more or less artificial stringency in money is over for the present. stringency in money is over for the present, and the market is in a favorable position for an upward turn, to which both the lower standfor an upward turn, to which both the lower standard of values and the greatly increased short interest will be of valuable assistance. The simple question as to whether stocks were to be carried with ease or with difficulty determined the course of prices today. There was a perfect dearth of reports and rumors, good, bad or indifferent, and operations were regulated simply with an eye to the condition of bank balances. Opening prices were higher and figures fattened for an hour or two; afterward a general Banting process set in and they grew meagre; loward the close they picked up all they had lost and more too, and ultimately closed under the most robust conditions of the day. To all intents and purposes the market was a broker's one—more desire

There was withdrawn from the Bank of England to-day for shipment to New York £100,000, making, with the £382,000 withdrawn yesterday, about $2,500,000 shipped to this port in two days. The steamship Canada, which arrived to-day, brought $1,200,000 in gold bars. In its financial article this morning the London Times says:—"The large amounts of bullion which have been sent direct from Paris to the United States have, with the shipments from London, had the effect of strengthening the reach a volume sufficient to cause alarm here and in Paris money may not immediately advance far in value. But many accidents may happen, and the fact that the French market has lately been nareas speculative companies tends to heighten the ancasy feeling still existing in London. disastrous reaction if the basis of credit became nar-rowed there by heavy exports of bullion, and any collapse in France would instantly react on London." The London France ways that £178,000 gold is ex-pected by the steamer due at Southampton on Sep-tember 1. The bulk of this amount, together with the £100,000 which recently arrived, will probably go to meet the American demand. A great deal more bullion will undoubtedly go to America. In some quarters it is believed that within a comparatively rief space £2,000,000 will be sent there. Notwithstanding recent expressions of opinion to the conbonds and fron, or any other commodity, will be quite inadequate to settle, for the time, the enormous balance which must be accumulating in respect to American food. The possible ultimate effect of this draft of bullion will be a rise from one to one and one-quarter per cent, the rate of discount now quoted among brokers, to a four or five per cent rate at the Bank of England during the au-

"Muggy" Jones' sleeves were rolled up yesterday when the officer brought him into the Je ket Police Court, and his whole aspect savored of the belligerent. "Muggy" was a bootblack, and he had been caught shying stones at a brother of the craft, who, it appears, had intraded on his especial

"What is your right name, my man?" His Honor asked, as he was told how the prisoner registered. "Tom," said the latter. "They calls me 'Muggy' for short. The fellows round the corner is precious

"Tom," said the latter. "They calls me 'Muggy' for short. The fellows round the corner is precious short o' wind, they is, an' they nurses it t' rope in any galout what comes along. See?"

"How is it that you were throwing stones to-day?"

"Oh, that was on'y at 'Buigy' O'Brien."

"Oh, that was all, ch? Well, tell me who may Buigy be."

"The biggest thief on the walk, he is. Smarter'n a steel trap an' always with his eye skinned for a haul. He'd coax a nickel outer a feller's jacket quicker'n you could wink. Why, them fellers what keeps apple stands got to put cat teasers around 'em when 'Buigy' shows up, so's 't keep the peanuts and things from jumpin' inter his pockets."

"But that was no reason why you should stone him."

"Wasn't it?" asked the prisoner. "Do you s'pose I was goin't' let that Congress blackin' slope away, an' that carpet shin off and a brush or two skedaddle without showin' cause. Nixie veeden, cuily. That's not the kind of a hairpin I am."

With this "Muggy" Jones stuck a thumb under either suspender, and towered to the full limit of his four feet and an inch or two. The Court was amused.

"Suppose I should send you to jail for this?"

"Oh, you wouldn't pinch a feller hard for standin' up for his rights, would you?" said the pink of preceeds:

"You can go, then."

"You can go, then."

"Good enough," said Muggy as he took up his box. Then showing a pair of fists like hickory nuts he remarked:

"If Thuky' goes a travellin' or to the workus I'll rorgiven him, oh yes; but if he comes around that corner he'll find he's a foolin' with a thunder storm and steamboat explosion rolled inter one. Don't you forget it."

And the concontrated essence of destruction went off gloomity.
